2018 Membership Dinner

It was a tale of two extremes at the 2018 HSforBC Membership Dinner.

Animal advocate Denise Pierce commanded; "Take your dog to work!"

When Denise designed her new office suites at DK Pierce and Associates in Zionsville, she made the floor plan dog friendly. The employees and their dogs love it. This is just one of the reasons her firm has made the "Best Places to Work" list two years running.

Sharing another side of animal care, Boone County Sheriff Deputy Hannah Fisher, the recently appointed animal control officer for Boone County, spoke of her commitment to companion animal rescue and the enforcement of soon to be enacted county animal care and control ordinances. Deputy Fisher shared statistics for recent county animal calls that were heart-breaking but at the same time hopeful.

HSforBC President Susan Austin gave an overview of our rescue efforts and updates on the shelter facility. Members enjoyed an excellent dinner buffet provided by LA Cafe in Whitestown.

Our members voiced their appreciation for the volunteers and supporters. Their hard work and effort helping lost, stray and endangered companion animals in Boone County is showing positive results.

From here to Caternity....and Beyond by Kathy Zimmerman

At the end of March I received a message from our Cat Lady, Dawn Walker, asking if we would be able to foster a very pregnant cat, and take care of her and the kittens until they could be vetted and homes found for them.

I thought about it for 3 seconds before responding with an enthusiastic 'yes!!' Because, well, KITTENS!!, right??

Pandora had been picked up as a stray by VCA in Zionsville. They had checked her out, started feeding her and loving on her, while they got in touch with HSforBC. She was about 7-8 months old (a baby having babies!), but she looked healthy and they didn't expect any problems.

Pandora settled right in with us. She was going to stay in my sewing room, where she could have a quiet place without being disturbed by, or feeling threatened by, our cats. She was a little sweetheart right from the start. Quiet, friendly, and she purred a lot. She liked getting her treats and pets. She had obviously been someone's pet.

She is a beautiful, shiny, black cat! Whether she had escaped from home, or was abandoned for some reason, we just don't know. But obviously, she had never been spayed or chipped. Luckily, the end result was that she found her way into the system so that she and her kittens could be taken care of!

Eleven days after we got her, she had her kittens!! Two males - one almost completely black 'manx' (bobbed tail) that we called Argos, one with four white socks, white whiskers, and white markings on his chest and tummy that we called Aries; and one female - extra fuzzy and all black, that we called Athena.

Pandora was an excellent mother from the start. She stayed with them, groomed them, fed them and chirped at them. She didn't mind at all when I would reach in so that I could touch them, and make sure all was well.

That same day, we had another little arrival, a week old orange and cream boy named Woodstock, who had been surrendered to HSforBC with the rest of his litter when they were only hours old. Woodstock was not thriving on bottle feedings. They were afraid he might not make it, so we decided to see if Pandora would accept him. She accepted him immediately, and he is now the 'large and in charge' kitten of the group!

We kept Pandora on her kitten chow, along with small servings of kitten wet food twice a day, and she stayed happy and healthy on that. She was very protective of her family and her space, and we had to be careful that she didn't catch sight of any of our cats as we entered and left 'her' room. Defensive mother cats are not to be trifled with!

We finally had to give the kittens the run of the room, as any barricade high enough to keep them contained would also keep Pandora from getting to them. So, at the same time, we set up a small litter box for the kittens, with coconut litter, since clumping/clay litters could be a big health hazard to tiny kittens that, like human babies, want to try to eat anything new!

We had to be very careful when we were in that room. We watched our step and checked before sitting down, or moving, or shifting any chairs. Kittens get everywhere, and quickly too! They were now enjoying playing with each other and the kitten toys we brought them. They love attention.

Since we had been handling them gently, and talking to them since the day after they were born, they are now definitely house kitties!! They don't know any other way.

We were just at the beginning of the weaning process when we got another surprise! Another abandoned baby that wasn't doing well was brought over to see if she could join Pandora's family. She was already starting to eat kitten food. After a few hours of Pandora being unsure whether she really wanted another kitten to take care of, she accepted Safari into the group. Safari is a sweet grey polydactyl.

This little family is almost ready for the first shots, to be followed by being fixed. Soon, the kittens will be ready to go to their forever homes.

I'll really miss them all! Pandora, Woodstock, Aries, Athena, Argos, and Safari are all special and deserve a wonderful, safe, loving home.

Kittens are adorable. But it is only for a short time that they are little balls of fluff. Soon they become young cats, and then grown cats, and will be for the rest of their lives. Cats can live 20+ years. So, keep this in mind when you are cooing over tiny, beautiful kittens, and deciding if you should have one.

This is a lifetime decision for you and for kitty. They want to have a forever home, and to be part of your family.

Please be sure that you can love and care for them for their lifetime, not just their childhood.

Daisy

She is one of the Boxer mix puppies. By June 1st she will be about six weeks old. She will be available for adoption about July 1st. What a beautiful little girl!!

Lady Bella

has spent a lot of her life in the shelter. She has been adopted into good homes but sadly, she has yet to find a permanent loving home. Because of this, she has developed trust issues. She loves to cuddle with people and eat treats. She is good on the leash.

A Happy Ending

On May 11th a good citizen with a keen eye spotted a baby kitten on the side of SR 32 west of Lebanon. She stopped and retrieved the furry little baby. The kitten's eyes were sealed shut with pus and he was crying. The citizen reached out to HSforBC on our Facebook page asking for help. The kitten wound up in our care and was named Ferris Buehler.

On May 15th after 4 days of around-the-clock foster care his weight was up to 13oz, he had more energy, and his eyes were clearing.

As of May 30th HER weight is up to 1.5 pounds and SHE already has potential adopters waiting for HER. It turns out the kitten is female and has been renamed Marilyn Monroe.

Marilyn Monroe is thriving because a very caring individual stopped to help her; and more caring people have stepped up to get her care!

Pandy

This sweet boy is almost a year old and very entertaining! He loves cuddling and climbing! He's great with other cats and gets along with dogs .

Moose

is a loving, sweet, friendly boy with a big personality. He is about a year old, and was found as a wondering stray, hoping someone would bring him in.

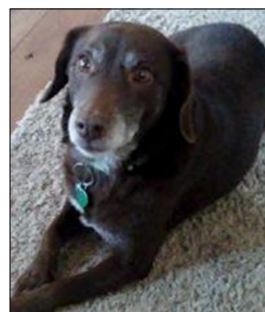

Diamond

is a sweet senior who would prefer to be an only dog or maybe with another senior. She was aggressive with a small dog, so she should not live in a home with one.

Ronnie

He is a lovable 4-5 year old male mix. He is a great companion, house broken, kennel trained, and not a barker. He enjoys walks and the company of other dogs and kids.

Marley

She is a sweet senior girl that likes to be near her people. She does not like change and can be fearful in the car. She currently lives with dogs in her foster home, but prefers they don't bother her. She needs a nice, quiet home.
